MRS. D. LOCKWOOD OF NEW LENOX DIES IN WIS.

The New Lenox and Mokena communities were deeply shocked over the sudden passing of Mrs. David Lockwood of New Lenox at a health resort in Waukesha, Wisconsin last Friday. Mrs. Lockwood had been ailing for some time and was a patient in Silver Cross hospital. Last Friday morning she was removed to the sanitarium and died toward evening.

The passing of this fine Christian character is deeply mourned by her family and hosts of friends. She lived what she professed. Whenever she could aid anyone in time of illness or distress she was right there to do it in a loving and cheerful manner. She was noted for her kindness and willingness to help the more less fortunate. She also was an active church and garden club worker. She was also a member of the fraternal order of the Eastern Star. The great good she did while living will always be remembered and her memory will always be cherished by all who knew her.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kirby former well known residents of Orland township and was born on a farm near Tinley Park, September 18, 1875.

She was united in marriage with David Lockwood, November 29, 1899 in Chicago. To this union five children were born of whom two preceded the mother in death.

Those mourning her demise are her husband, one son Marvin, two daughters, Mrs. John Clyde, Joliet, Mrs. Clarence Carlson, Orland Park; her mother, Mrs. Eva Kirby, one brother and sister in Chicago and another sister in Syracuse, New York.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Carlson Funeral Home in Joliet with Rev. Mr. Amen of the New Lenox Methodist church officiating. Arthur Lambrecht well known Frankfort singer, sang a beautiful selection "The City Four-Square."

Burial was made in the Cooper Memorial Cemetery at Orland Park.

AMAZONS ATTACK ORLAND CARE TAKER

Tuesday afternoon Constable John Helenhouse at Orland Park was called on to get some fishermen out of the Gee section of Orland Lake when they refused to pay the required fee for fishing in the lake. When told by the constable that they were on private property and would have to pay or get off, a man and two girls packed up their fishing paraphernalia and left.

One of the caretakers reported a group of drunken women had refused to pay and had spit in his face and then finally left.

Complaint is made that there are no signs at the lake designating how much of it is on private property. A large portion of the lake is in the Orland forest preserve and wild life refugia.

WALKS 9,000 MILES IN 9 MONTHS FOR $10,000

A very interesting guest stopped at the Village Lodge at 159th and Oak Park north of Tinley Park one day the past week. He was Charles Roy Loungeway of Augusta, Maine, a contestant in a 9,000 mile walking marathon for a $10,000 prize, the distance to be covered in 9 months.

Mr. Loungeway who is 42 years old left Augusta Maine on December 14, 1940 with 14 other walkers with San Diego, California as their destination.

When the last competitor was eliminated, Mr. Loungeway was holding a 165 mile lead at El Paso, Texas. He made the 3774 miles on the first lap in 96 days, a new coast to coast record. Then he hiked from San Diego to Seattle, Washington; a distance of 1472 miles in 42 days. Then from Seattle he had 15 fresh walkers and the last of them gave out at Madison, Wis. Mr. Loungeway was only 40 miles in the lead then. He is now heading for New York City with time to spare. On this hike so far he wore out 10 pairs of leather shoes, 139 pairs of socks and six pairs of Keds. He slept out every night. He carried a 40 pound pack, but no weapons of any kind. He is also supplied with an identification thru the U. S. Federal Bureau of Investigation, Washington, D. C. as a chief credential. He has lost twenty-six pounds in weight, weighing 156 pounds when he started out. He says "I am just a wreck, all of this for $10,000; it's worth a lot more and shall not undertake a hike of this kind again."

He says the highways so far have been good, but he says the automobile drivers here are terrible and he says it is no fun walking the left side facing all these bum drivers for 15 hours a day, Sundays included.

Mr. Loungeway advises all hitch hikers to stay in their home states for there is as much work there as there is in any other state. He says "Keep out" should be on signs on highways for all thumb hikers.

Price of liquor raised to 20c A Drink Result of Tax

As a result of the new state tax on liquors, many taverns have advanced the price from the customary 15c to 20c a drink.

PLANE LIGHTS IN OAT FIELD, DOES $65 DAMAGE ON ORLAND FARM

Last Tuesday evening about seven o'clock, Constable John Helenhouse of Orland Park received a telephone call from Harvey Boley that an air plane had lit in his oat field and done about $65 damage to his crop and that the flyer of the plane had refused to make any settlement and insisted removing the plane.

Constable Helenhouse went out to the Boley farm and asked the flyer for his credentials which he produced showing he was from the Harlem Airport. He was told to get word to the owner of the plane to pay the $65 before he could remove the plane.

About ten o'clock the same evening Constable Helenhouse received another phone call from Mr. Boley saying that a car with five men in it had pulled up at the farm and insisted on removing the plane without paying for damage to the oat field.

Constable Helenhouse called the county police at Homewood and a squad car was sent out to the Boley farm and Constable Helenhouse also went to the farm. (When the five men were asked for credentials they were unable to show any. They were told to move on and if they attempted to move the plane they would be arrested. They left.)

Methodists of the Rock River conference are looking forward with great expectations to a very outstanding event which will take place on July 27 when the Centenary camp meeting Diamond Jubilee will be observed marking the 75th anniversary of the opening of the camp grounds in New Lenox.

1866 saw the first start of the camp meeting on the grounds west of New Lenox and for more than half a century an active Association held services each year on these grounds for a period of ten days each year.

No man can measure the amount of good done in this great evangelistic event. In the later years, the camp meeting as it was known in the older days, has been replaced by Young Peoples Epworth League Institute, but the camp meeting Association is still active. At a meeting of the Camp Meeting Association held last July plans were made for a one day celebration definitely evangelistic in nature and this is entirely in keeping with the emphasis on evangelism as outlined by the Methodist church this year.

These plans were placed in the hands of a committee composed of Rev. Clark J. Wood, chairman, Burt G. Martin, Mrs. S. M. Angus, Dr. Chas. Drake Skinner, A. C. Crawford, E. B. Nickolson, F. H. Parks, and Rev. Payne J. Symwolt. Plans are being made for the accommodation of thousands of people from all over the territory. A huge tent will be placed on the grounds to be used for services in case of rain. There will be plenty of room in which to park cars.

The Bishop James H. Straughn of the Pittsburgh Area will be the main speaker at the afternoon services commencing at 3:30 o'clock. A song service will be lead by Homer Rodehever, formerly with Billy Sunday and Geo. Brewster who also at one time was associated with the noted evangelist, will preside at the Hammond Electric organ. Dr. Chas. Skinner, superintendent of the Joliet-Dixon district will preside. The Jubilee celebration will be climaxed in the evening at 8 o'clock when a huge historical pageant will be presented.

This celebration will be one of the most outstanding events witnessed in New Lenox this year.

500,000 Citizens to Be 'Eyes and Ears' Of Army Air Corps Defense Program

Men and Women Volunteer As Plane Spotters for Air Defense.

By DONREID LAWNFELL

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)
WASHINGTON, D. C. — Enrollment of 500,000 U. S. civilians as volunteer observers for the army air corps is proceeding under the direction of Lieut. Gen. Delos C. Emmons, commander of the general headquarters air force, whose headquarters is at Bolling Field, D. C.

Thus a million eyes and ears join in another forehanded step in the accelerated national defense program. The war department asserts it has no desire to alarm the general public, but points out that the active co-operation of the citizenry at large is needed for the success of national defense measures.

Organization of this volunteer corps will constitute a nationwide civilian force who will act as spotters for the four air forces of the army air corps. They will be affiliated with the interceptor commands of each air force.

Modern Paul Reveres.

These modern Paul Reveres who are being welded into a compact unit of defense "minutemen and minutewomen," may not adopt the slogan, "One if by land, two if by sea." But their words in the mouthpiece of a crank driven model telephone from an Iowa farmhouse, or a terse message from a shiny new dial instrument in New Jersey, will send fighter commands, anti-aircraft artillery and balloon squadrons into action.

From the rooftops of their homes, in the towers of churches and skyscrapers, on prairies, farms, fields and beaches, Mr. and Mrs. Average American Citizen will watch for that speck and listen for that telltale hum that may reveal the presence of an air enemy.

Patriotic organizations like the American Legion, and their women's auxiliaries, forest fire wardens, weather observers, CCC and the coast guard, would of course, co-operate in flashing an alarm to headquarters.

Public utilities, telegraph, telephone, railway and light and power systems will take an enormous part in the warning system, for the alarm flashed would be sent over their communications.

The importance of air-warnings cannot be over-estimated, says the war department. To know where the attacking force is poised, where it strikes and where it may be expected to strike, is essential for defense of the country. Here is where the volunteer watchers play a vital role. Organized in their home communities, in grid fashion, they will man listening and watching posts in established time shifts. At the first sign of danger, they will call "Army Flash" into their telephones. In time of attack they would maintain their positions and continue their reports of the enemy's movements, concentration, numbers, etc.

Plan Is Workable.

This method of aircraft warning has already been tested and proved feasible. An experiment was held in the New York-New England region, under the supervision of Maj. Gen. James E. Chaney, commander of the First air force. A corps of civilian observers was organized by the American Legion, to work with the army. The American Telephone & Telegraph company and its affiliated companies handled the communications over their network.

In event of war the above scene in war-torn London would undoubtedly be re-enacted in all large American cities. The picture shows air-force officers and auxiliary air force women plotters watching enemy movements over Britain. Housed many feet below the surface, they receive a continuous record of information, supplied by scattered detecting posts, similar to the ones being created here. Thus they are enabled to chart defense and attack plans, from a subterranean nerve center, protected from air raids by thick steel and concrete overhead.

Results were excellent and the experience and knowledge gained from the tests, laid the groundwork for the present program. Also taken into consideration were methods used abroad, as reported by American air officers stationed there.

All-Around Air Defense.

Modern air defense is divided basically into active and passive phases. Included in the active phase is the "defensive" attack, carried out by fighter planes. It embraces also the network of civilians giving the warnings of enemy aircraft. Anti-aircraft artillery, pouring barrages of exploding steel into the skies, and balloon barrages that compel enemy aircraft to fly too high for effectiveness, partly complete the picture of active defense.

To obtain information of the movements of hostile air threats, to attack these threats in the air, to provide simultaneous protection of all sensitive home areas, will be the objectives of these agencies of active defense. Co-operating in a combined effort, they will make possible a positive, aggressive and coordinated counter-blow to sweep enemy fighters and bombers from the skies.

Close liaison will be maintained with the agencies engaged in passive defense. To them, also, warnings of approaching enemy aircraft are vital. They will warn the civilian population and industry, warn home guards, police, fire departments, anti-gas and medical workers to stay on the alert at their stations. They will enforce blackouts of lighting and radio broadcasting which might guide enemy aircraft to their targets. This is a phase of civilian air raid defense, however, for which separate, detailed plans will be made.

The Four Air Forces.

The First air force is commanded by Maj. Gen. James E. Chaney. It covers the northeast and includes the following states: Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia, that portion of North Carolina north and east of the line extending from South Boston in Virginia and Cape Lookout in North Carolina; West Virginia, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Kentucky, Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

The Second air force is commanded by Maj. Gen. John F. Curry. Embracing the Northwest, it comprises the following states: Washington, Oregon, Montana, Idaho, Utah, Wyoming, Colorado, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas.

The Third air force, under command of Maj. Gen. Barton K. Yount, embraces the southeast region. The states in this area are: North Carolina (except that portion attached to the First air force), South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Arkansas.

The Fourth air force takes in the Southwest. It is commanded by Maj. Gen. Jacob E. Fickel. Included in the area of this force are the following states: California, Nevada, Arizona, New Mexico, Texas and Oklahoma.

Bomber and Interceptor Commands.

Each air force is divided into two components, a bomber command, which is controlled by the air force commander, and an interceptor command, which includes fighter planes or pursuit aviation, anti-aircraft artillery and balloon barrages, supervises and controls the entire observer and warning system, and delivers the counter-blow.

Each interceptor command is under the direct control of a brigadier general who is subordinate to the air force commander. The heads of the interceptor commands are as follows: Brig. Gen. John C. McDonnell, interceptor command, First air force, Mitchell field, Long Island, N. Y.; Brig. Gen. Carlyle H. Wash, interceptor command, Second air force, Fort George Wright, Washington; Brig. Gen. Walter H. Frank, interceptor command, Third air force, Tampa, Fla.; Brig. Gen. Millard F. Harmon, interceptor command, Fourth air force, Riverside, California.

Tests Will Continue.

The present air districts—Northeast air district, Northwest air district, Southeast air district, and Southwest air district—are to be designated hereafter as air forces, as follows:

First air force, (formerly Northeast air district); Second air force, (formerly Northwest air district); Third air force, (formerly Southeast air district); Fourth air force, (formerly Southwest air district).

The air defense command was originally formed to provide experience and the basis for future developments in defense against air attacks, which are now being applied in this new organization. The air defense command co-ordinated control of anti-aircraft units, pursuit planes, and aircraft warning service of signal communications, all elements for the protection of an area against hostile air attacks. Now that these functions are to be taken over by the interceptor commands, the air defense command will remain as a laboratory group at Mitchell field, New York, consisting of Major General Chaney, four staff officers and 34 enlisted men. They will continue "test sector" experiments and develop principles, tactics and doctrine to be used by the army air corps.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Reviewed by
CARTER FIELD

National defense brings co-operation between Aluminum company and TVA . . . Defense officials expect shortage in everything except wheat. (Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

WASHINGTON. — War makes stranger bedfellows than politics, and national defense "emergencies" are so close to war that just a bit of shooting turns one into the other.

The prize exhibit of strange bedfellow at the moment is the TVA, otherwise the Tennessee Valley authority and the Aluminum Company of America. The TVA has been almost the symbol of public ownership for some years now. The Aluminum company has been the favorite target of the New Dealers since long before they came into power with Roosevelt.

The Aluminum company has a contract with TVA which calls for 30,000 kilowatts of firm power—that is power which must be delivered regardless of low water or other demand. There has been a devastating drought, from a water power standpoint, in the Southeast for months. Water is so low that there is considerable uneasiness as to what will be the situation at the TVA dams in late August, September and October.

BUT—the TVA has been furnishing the Aluminum company with 150,000 kilowatts right along, drawing down its reservoirs to do it, and not making any fuss about the company having no contract rights to this additional power, nor insisting that higher rates should be paid for it!

SHIPPING DISTANCE VITAL

There are a number of angles to the situation which is responsible for this strange state of affairs. Most important, of course, is the desperate need by the government for more aluminum for airplanes—more aluminum than anyone thinks can be produced, as a matter of fact.

Another factor in this TVA-Aluminum love feast is that most of the bauxite, of which it takes three tons, approximately, to make one ton of aluminum, comes from Georgetown, British Guiana. That is where the shipping situation comes in. Uncle Sam cannot spare ships to take this bauxite through the Panama canal and up the long haul from Panama to Portland, close to Bonneville where there is plenty of power. When it is stated that it takes the ordinary ship twice as long from Panama to San Francisco as from New York to Colon—leaving out transiting the canal—the impact of ship scarcity on this situation can better be realized.

So the bauxite MUST be worked into aluminum as close as possible to the southeastern tip of the U. S. Hence the Aluminum company, which has splendid plants in the TVA region, must be supplied with every ton it can fabricate, and must be given the power regardless of previous conditions of economic warfare.

Numerous Shortages Arising in U. S.

With the possible exception of wheat, there is not enough of anything, won't be enough next year, and won't be enough in 1943. That is the accepted doctrine of those who are really running national defense. It is the explanation of a lot of things which are puzzling business men all over the country.

The philosophy is that what we will need is not something to be charted out on a schedule of appropriations to be made by congress. The thing to do under this philosophy is to find out the most of EVERYTHING that can be produced—everything that is under the national defense category, which is surprisingly near everything that can be imagined—and then plan appropriations for those maximum capacities.

The whole picture is easier to illustrate in terms of electric power than anything else, that being one of the things which cannot be produced quickly. So the order of the day is that every possible source of electric power be tapped, whether it will result in power one year from now, or five years from now.

In keeping with this policy the Federal Power commission has even taken what some of the radicals regard as a backward step in the march to eventual public ownership of the electric business. This is the granting of licenses for the construction of the Cresta and Pulga dams on Feather river, in California.

The only concession to the public power bloc was that the licenses were granted for 35 years only, instead of the usual 50. Which means recapture of the dams 35 years hence if the government then is so disposed, and very tight regulation meanwhile.

But the point is that if a suggestion is made that power can be developed at X and Y cross roads, the objection being that there is no probability that the power can be used economically in that vicinity, the administration says: "Go ahead. We will provide the industry to use that power when it is ready."

Operations On Elderly Individuals

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

WITHIN a very short space of time I had three elderly patients undergo operation, two for gallstones and one for an enlarged prostate-gland situated at neck of bladder. All three made good recoveries despite the fact that their ages were 72, 74 and 79, respectively.

Dr. A. W. S. Hay, Winnipeg, in the Canadian Medical Association Journal, states that the expression "too old for operation" is heard too often; that age is not a question of years but of the physical and mental condition of the patient. "No one can say of a man of 75 that he is too old for operation until one has studied that patient not only from the standpoint of the disease to be removed but also from the general standpoint. And without making such a study, one is not justified in condemning the old gentleman to continued misery by refusing surgical aid solely because of the added risk due to his age. A death rate of 10 to 30 per cent is very much less to be dreaded than months or possibly years of misery."

Favorable Conditions.

Of course, most elderly individuals should not undergo operation to remedy slight defects or discomforts but there are conditions which cause misery and suffering which can be corrected with a great degree of safety under hospital conditions.

What operations may justly be advised for elderly people? Dr. Hay names the following groups:

1. Emergencies (to save life from immediate danger).
 2. Operations where the patient can make his own choice between trying to withstand pain, such as gallstone colic, by use of quieting drugs, or by operation.
 3. To overcome some severe physical disability such as a large hernia (rupture).
 4. Malignant disease—cancer.
- One fact that has been brought out by investigations into the results of operations on elderly patients is that in "emergency" operation the death rate is not greatly higher than it might have been in younger patients having the same conditions present.

Heart Symptoms On Slight Effort

TWO things can cause the heart rate to increase while you are at rest: holding your breath or getting nervous about the increase in the rate.

Sometimes you find that after an effort that is really not severe—parking your car, or other effort—you are breathless and wonder if your heart is failing. The cause of your breathlessness is not due to the mental and physical effort of parking your car or lifting an object but because you "held your breath," breathed in no air and did not breathe out the already "used" air in your lungs.

Army medical officers are finding that a number of recruits are afflicted with "heart" symptoms on slight effort. These symptoms are called "effort syndrome" (combination of symptoms) which consists of nervousness, exhaustion, discomfort in left side of chest, palpitation, giddiness and breathlessness on exertion. Most of these cases are due to nervousness and the balance due to lack of oxygen.

Middle and long distance runners and swimmers learn to regulate their efforts so that so many strokes or strides are done between breaths. A 100-yard runner or swimmer takes a deep breath before his race and takes no further breaths till the race is over or the distance covered.

The point then is that while the pulse rate should, under ordinary circumstances, be at 72 to 84 at rest, holding your breath or nervousness can send it up to over 100 beats. Similarly, breathlessness can be due to nervousness and holding the breath.

A cold in the head or eating too much acid food can likewise cause an increased heart rate and breathlessness due to inability to get enough oxygen to the lungs, or too much oxygen is being used to burn up acid foods.

QUESTION BOX

Q—I am worried about my weight. Everything I eat seems to make me fat. I am not a heavy eater. I eat nothing but fruit until dinner in the evening.

A—Your best plan would be to eat a good breakfast and a light lunch and dinner. You can thus work off the breakfast during the day. Taking the big meal at night gives you no chance to work off the fat. Try this for a month and cut down on all your liquids.

FISH STORY

It may be old, but it's new to this department. The story of two fishermen returning from a Florida trip. Asked if he had had much luck, the first fisherman told of landing a 600-pound sailfish first time out. "What did you get?" he asked.

"I hooked into something and when I pulled up I had a big brass lantern from an American ship sunk back in the War of 1812 and it was still burning!" he replied.
"Say," said the first fisherman, "I'm a reasonable fellow. If you'll blow out that light, I'll take 550 pounds off that fish."

Yehudi Menuhin, the famous violinist, has been given a Class I rating in the draft. But a lot of us will wonder why a great violinist is taken when the country is so full of bum fiddlers who ought to be shot.

Simile by Vincent Lopez: as modern looking as the hat grandma used to wear.

FAIR WARNING!

They say somebody dropped a bomb over Kilkenny the other day from 2,000 feet and that a Kilkenny man picked it up, threw it back and destroyed an enemy at 10,000 feet.

Elmer Twitchell hopes there is no lag in our fire hose program. "I agree with Mr. Roosevelt that if a neighbor's house is on fire the thing to do is to lend him your hose without quibbling. And if he asks for a ladder, I am for handing him one without all the crossbars missing."

It took a dentist two hours to pull one of Clark Gable's teeth recently. We understand that when Clark inquired, "Where's your strength in that good right arm!" the dentist replied, "Gone with the windup."

RESTAURANT MAN

To customers he throws a curve. His rating isn't high. For he's the kind of guy who'll serve Six portions to a pie.

On Hitler's doorplate in his old Munich home he is still listed as an author. And he appears to be the only author in history determined to kill off most of his customers.

Maybe Hitler gets his author idea from the feeling he is one of Europe's best "shellers."

National Crop Outlook Bright

LaSalle Map of Business Conditions.

Farmers are expecting increased harvests and naturally, increased income for food prices are expected to continue. Farm production costs have gone up and they are meeting this situation by working longer hours and using more machinery. The number of tractors on farms is steadily mounting. Farm income increase has, so far, kept pace with that of his city cousin.

By L. G. ELLIOTT
President, LaSalle Extension University

CHICAGO.—As a result of favorable growing conditions during the first part of the season, farmers in most parts of the country expect to harvest even larger crops this year than last year. Higher prices for farm products make the outlook bright, and the upward trend in agriculture is equalled in industry.

Increased consumer demand for dairy products, added to government purchases for relief purposes and for shipment abroad, has boosted income of dairy farmers approximately 20 per cent on the average. While the increase has been greater in some regions than in others, the improvement is widespread.

Farmers who produce livestock for meat are another group which has been enjoying increased income. Hog prices have risen steadily until they are near the highest for the past three years. The government program of purchasing heavy hogs has stimulated the raising of heavy stock.

THE STORY SO FAR:

Dusty King and Lew Gordon had built up a vast string of ranches. King was killed by his powerful and unscrupulous competitor, Ben Thorpe. Bill Roper, King's adopted son, was determined to avenge his death in spite of the opposition of his sweetheart,

Jody stood up. She felt suddenly tired and numb.

"I still think a world can be made where decency can live," she said. "Some day, decent things will live on this prairie, whatever happens to us. But meantime—I guess he belongs to you."

She held Marquita's stare for a moment, then turned and walked to the door. Opening it, she saw that the first forlorn cold gray of the winter dawn was coming into the sky east of Montana.

The black hulk of the horse whose neck she had broken lay at her feet. She pulled from under it the coat with which she had blinded it when she charged the door, and pulled it on; the bitter cold of the dawn was enough to penetrate to the bones.

Slowly she uncinched and worked the saddle free, then the bridle. She staggered a little as she shouldered the saddle, and walked out toward the corral where other, living ponies stood, dark humped-up shapes against the snow.

CHAPTER XXIV

Bill Roper and Bob Stokes—the King-Gordon cowboy whom Roper had not known—had finished their makeshift dressing of Old Joe's wound, and were working on Jim Leathers. Jim Leathers lay perfectly still; only his eyes seemed alive.

"How's she feeling?" Bill Roper asked.

"The Gordon girl? She's all right. She went out to look over the horses or something."

"Bob, you better go see nothing's happened to Jody."

"I'll go in a minute, soon as we're through here."

But Jody came in of her own accord, before that. She went straight to Old Joe.

"Are you terribly uncomfortable, Joe?"

"I feel great," Joe said with spirit. "I been hunting for a vacation for fifteen years, and this is my first excuse!"

"I'm sorry, Joe. You'll never know how sorry I am. I tangled things up pretty badly, I guess."

"You done wonderful," Joe told her. "You saved Bill's neck, all right. They had him hog-tied like a moshhorn, and the girl, too, when we busted in."

Jody shot Marquita a glance in which the only light was a faint contempt, but she did not comment.

"I'm riding back to Miles," she told Joe. "On the way I'll send help back, and everything you'll need. And I'll see that you're moved in a spring wagon, soon as you feel like moving. I appreciate what you've done, Joe."

"Hey, look," Bob Stokes began. "You can't be riding off like this in the middle of the night!"

"It's coming daylight, fast. I'll be all right."

Outside, in the gray light that seemed colder than the air, Jody Gordon had mounted as Bill Roper came to her stirrup.

"You mustn't go yet," he told her gently. "These boys are fixed as comfortable as they can be; there's no hurry to get help. You'll be wanting some coffee; and I have to talk to you, Jody."

"I'm not interested in talking to you," Jody said without expression.

"Why, Jody—look here—"

"I got you into this," Jody said. "I got you into this because I was a fool. So I had to get you out. That's all over now. I don't want to talk to you, now, or any time."

She whirled her horse sharply, so that its hoofs sent up a scurry of dry snow; then she was gone, her retreat covered by the cabin as she swung toward the trail.

For a moment Roper stood looking after her. Then he stepped inside.

"You'll stay here, Bob," he said. "I'll saddle and ride after her; I'll see that she gets to Miles."

"Wait a minute," Old Joe said. "You got to wait a minute! There's something else you got to know."

"There's nothing else I need to know."

"Lew Gordon ain't in Miles!"

"Then where the devil is he? His daughter—"

"Somebody—Jim Leathers, I guess—sent a note to Lew Gordon that his daughter was all right, but couldn't be sent home just yet. Nobody signed that note. But it was plain to be seen from it that some war party of Ben Thorpe's was holding her some place. So Lew Gordon—"

"You mean that Lew Gordon is going on the warpath himself? Hunting for Jody?"

"He's going after it straighter than that. Everybody knows Ben Thorpe is at Sundance. Lew Gordon has gone to Sundance to tie into Ben Thorpe, and his old gun is hammering away at his side."

"He figures to fight Thorpe?"

"Bill, I sure looks that way to me. What's strange about that? Thorpe has punished away at Lew Gordon all his life. He's stole his cattle and killed his trail bosses, and fought pony which knows that it has come to the end of the long trail. He drew a last drag from his cigarette, and strapped on the gunbelt which he had laid aside. Unhurriedly, he three or four times drew the iron from its leather, to be sure that it was running free. Then, with a purely unconscious motion, he cocked his hat over one eye and went down into the street.

Jody Gordon, and her father, Roper conducted a great raid upon Thorpe's vast herds in Montana. He was captured by Leathers and Kane, two of Thorpe's men. Leathers' girl, pretty Marquita, loved Roper and made a desperate but vain attempt to save him. Thorpe's men were attacked by some of Roper's cowboys, led by Jody. Her joy at finding him was short lived, because Marquita, a saloon hostess, told her that she, and not Jody, was Roper's girl.

He knew that Lew Gordon had gone into the Red Dog Saloon, and he walked toward it now.

For a moment Bill Roper, raider, night-rider, gunfighter—dreaded name of the Long Trail—experienced a twist of the heart, terrible, unbelievably acute. Then he shrugged, and walked into the Red Dog Bar.

Lew Gordon stood at the bar of the Red Dog Saloon. The hard line of his jaw was blurred by a silver shag of whisker now, and his mustache was silver, and his hair; but the clear blue eyes were unbelievably young, younger than Bill Roper had ever seen them before. His hands were folded quietly, one elbow on the bar; and so greatly did this silver-haired man dominate the space in which he stood that it was minutes before Roper realized that there was a bartender there at all.

"So you came," Lew Gordon said.

"Of course, Lew. Didn't you know I would come?"

"In one way," Lew Gordon said, "I'm glad you came. I want to say a couple of things to you, Billy, my boy. I done something wrong, Billy."

"You was right and I was wrong. You fought him; I tried to smooth things out. I'm glad I've lived to tell you this: you was right and I was wrong!"

"Lew—" Bill began.

"I should have killed him, Billy," Lew Gordon said.

"Lew! What are you telling me?"

"I know I was wrong," Lew Gordon said. Yet, somehow he did not seem unhappy. "Always I stood for law, for order—the decent thing, the thing that would build this country into something my kid could live in. But—I guess it wasn't meant to be. I should have swung with you when you tied into him in Texas, and again when you tied into him in the north! But I aim to square it all up today!"

"You mean—?" said Bill Roper.

"He's coming to meet me here."

"With how many men?" Roper asked again.

"What does it matter?" Lew poured himself a drink.

Outside, on the board walk of Sundance, were sounding the heels of approaching men.

"I can kill him," Bill Roper said, "I can kill him even if I die."

Lew Gordon's face changed swiftly. Suddenly he was the indomitable old man whom Bill Roper had always known.

"Ben Thorpe is for me," Lew Gordon said, "to make up for the quiet years."

And Bill Roper, looking deep into the young eyes of that ageing man, finally said, "Okay."

And then the door darkened, and the approaching heels on the board walk were silent because they had arrived. The man Lew Gordon had sent for had come.

It was Ben Thorpe who stepped quickly through the door, and one pace to the left, so that his gun, already drawn, swept the bar. It was Walk Lasham who followed him through the door, stepping one pace to the right, so that the door was clear for the three unknown gunfighters who tried to enter all at once.

"Draw, Ben," Lew Gordon said; and then all guns spoke at once.

In the blast of gunfire that followed, no man could tell what happened—but Roper knew that all guns seemed to converge upon Lew Gordon, and frantically he threw the lash of his fire at Thorpe, at Lasham, at the unknown men at the door.

For a moment the guns spoke in a smashing roar, and the powder smoke stung Bill Roper's nostrils; and then suddenly there was silence again.

Thorpe and Lasham both were down as that gunsmoke cleared, and those other strangers in the doorway had disappeared, except for a boot heel that dragged almost out of sight, and then was still.

Beside the bar of the Red Dog Saloon Lew Gordon still stood. Perhaps it was his bullet in the heart of Ben Thorpe—no man would ever know.

He turned now, slowly, elbow upon the bar, and looked at Bill Roper.

"Thanks, son," he said. The hand that held the heavy forty-five sagged deliberately, then dropped the gun; it made a strange clatter upon the unswept boards of the floor. Then Lew Gordon's knees broke and he went down, and Bill Roper caught him as he fell.

Thin and tinny across the squalid town, across the thawing prairie, the church bell was ringing—a makeshift church bell ringing, on Sunday morning, as Lew Gordon died.

CHRISTIANITY EXPANDS IN ASIA

LESSON TEXT—Acts 19:8-10, 23-32.
GOLDEN TEXT—So mightily grew the word of God and prevailed.—Acts 19:20.

War is the order of the day, and much as we may regret it the life of every one of us is affected by its feverish touch. Certainly no Christian has any pleasure in the violent hatreds of wicked men, and can only pray that somehow a righteous peace may come to this troubled world.

There is a warfare, however, which we do seek to foster and promote. We encourage it, and as Christians make a holy resolve to battle to the end. That is the warfare against Satan and his hosts. As long as he rules in the hearts of men, and sin and wickedness are here, we say, "Fight on, my soul."

Christian life and service are presented in Scripture as a fight. We do well to learn the methods and the weapons of this great spiritual conflict; not stressing a belligerent note of strife against one another, and particularly not between the divisions of God's army in the earth, but standing shoulder to shoulder in the battle against the Evil One.

I. Attack for God (vv. 8-10).

The vigorous prosecution of a strong attack on the enemy's position is good military strategy, and good spiritual warfare. The command of God is "Forward!" and His forces are not to hinder their effectiveness by weak indecision or fear. Paul sets us an example in his

1. Bold Preaching (vv. 8, 9a).

Paul had met some disciples (19:1-8) who knew only the baptism of John and did not have the Holy Spirit. Dr. Erdman rightly says that "there are many more like these twelve 'disciples' in the pews of Christian churches. They are sincere men, they hate their sins, they believe in the teachings of Jesus, they admire the Sermon on the Mount, they yearn for the highest and best things, but they lack spiritual power. Why? Because they are 'disciples of John,' they have not fixed their hearts and their hopes upon a divine, risen, glorified Christ; they do not know 'the grace of God.' When, however, they learn the full gospel and yield themselves to Christ, they are not merely baptized with water, but also the Holy Spirit."

2. Careful Teaching (vv. 9b, 10).

Three months of such preaching brought many converts, but there were also "hardened and disobedient" men whose opposition caused Paul to withdraw the disciples (learners) to the privacy of a lecture room for thorough instruction in Christian doctrine, a sort of Bible Institute of Ephesus. The church has largely failed in its teaching ministry and has thus weakened its effectiveness against the enemy. To be strong workers for the Lord, Christians must know the doctrines of the Bible.

II. Counter Attack by Satan (vv. 23-32).

The enemy of our souls is often content to let us go on in comparative peace as long as we do not bother him unduly, but once we put up the banner of a holy life and service in God's army, he begins a terrific counter attack. Paul had felt it already in the hardening of listeners' hearts (v. 8), but now it began in dead earnest.

1. By Selfish Opposition (vv. 23-27).

One way to bring a violent reaction against spiritual truth is to let it interfere with business. Demetrius and his fellow silversmiths professed to be concerned about the threatened destruction of the heathen worship of Diana (and what a fine testimony that was to the effectiveness of Paul's preaching!), but in reality they were worried about the loss of their ungodly business in charms (vv. 25-27).

Many of the enemies of the gospel in our time are fighting against God's Word because they are in a business which is condemned by it. They know that every time a new convert is won to Christ they lose a customer and it troubles them. Reader, if you are in that kind of business, get out of it quick before God's judgment falls upon you.

2. Senseless Tumult (vv. 28-32).

Knowing that their opposition was without true foundation, they inspired and agitated a wild demonstration. Is it not astonishing how many thoughtless and foolish people there are in the world who will senselessly follow the lead of someone who opposes God?

Shouting a slogan which had no real meaning, they lent their voices to the tumultuous agitation against God. Finally, one sensible man, fearing the punishment of city officials, quieted them. The Ephesians were just like many in our day who fear man more than God. But, may we ask, if you fear the judgment of men, how think you to escape the judgment of God? After all, it is God and His Word you oppose, unconverted friend. Do you think He will hold you guiltless?

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES
"God" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, July 6.

The Golden Text was, "I am the Lord thy God, the Holy One of Israel, thy Saviour" (Isaiah 43: 8).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "I will extol thee, my God, O king; and I will bless thy name for ever and ever. Every day will I bless thee; and I will praise thy name for ever and ever. Great is the Lord, and greatly to be praised; and his greatness is unsearchable. One generation shall praise thy works to another, and shall declare thy mighty acts. I will speak of the glorious honour of thy majesty, and of thy wondrous works" (Psalms 145: 1-5).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "All substance, intelligence, wisdom, being, immortality, cause, and effect belong to God. These are His attributes, the eternal manifestations of the infinite divine Principle, Love. No wisdom is wise but His wisdom; no truth is true, no love is lovely, no life is Life but the divine; no good is, but the good God bestows" (p. 275).

WHY I ATTEND V.F.W. MEETINGS

Since our first meeting in the New Year held January 2nd, I have been doing a bit of dreaming, bit of wondering and a bit of thinking. Most of my thoughts were centered on the subject for why I, and I mean myself, religiously attend every meeting of the Post.

Is it because I get a thrill when I enter our meeting room knowing that I am privileged to be in a place where few men are and can be eligible?

Is it because after entering that room I feel a warm glow in my heart, as I shake hands with George, Joe, Bill, John and others, knowing they are glad I came and that they like me?

Is it because I thrill from my head to my toes as our flag passes and as I salute I know I had a small part in keeping it free and waving high?

Is it because I feel a certain righteousness as our chaplain prays and I bow my head in memory of my departed comrades knowing I am doing something to keep alive the memory of their deeds and their sacrifices?

Is it because when I am on the outside and asked "What does the pin in your lapel mean?" I enjoy the respect in their eyes as I reply with pardonable pride that I was "Over There" and am a member of the V. F. W.?

WORTH DAIRY CO.

One of the Finest Dairies in This Locality to have State Grade A Milk Permit No. 4. Under State Supervision
112TH & HARLEM Phone: Worth 18-W-1
MR. JOHN ZUIDEMA, Prop.

This is a prominent sanitary institution which has aided in the up-building of the community and renders a valuable and essential service in the furnishing of their Milk and Cream, which in years has enlarged their business and are admirably equipped to serve the trade which they supply all over this section. A well known concern under the efficient management of Mr. Zuidema.

Their supply of milk and cream comes from the healthiest and best fed cows in this section. The plant is positively as sanitary as long experience and the expenditure of much money can make it and it is in the hands of a man who is thoroughly conversant with every phase of the business.

There is no reason why they should not occupy a prominent place in the better class of dairy markets and the above are some of the reasons why their brands are more and more popular with particular buyers and why this concern is prospering far beyond even the promoters' expectation.

In making this review we are glad to recommend the Worth Dairy Co. to all our readers for their fullest support and patronage.

They also cater to club dinners, banquets, private parties, etc., and will welcome your phone call for information or reservations.

Another reason for the widespread reputation of Oswald's Grove is the fact that there is no "rough element" present at any time. Any incompetency on the part of anyone employed is not tolerated by the management either. When you visit this modern restaurant you may safely escort any member of your family or your most cherished friend and know that you are introducing them to an air of refinement that rates with the best to be had anywhere.

Of course, they pride themselves on the fact that all food from their own kitchen is selected with a view to only the choicest of whatever it may be. Regardless if you wish to attend only for dinner, an hour or two of dancing, you will appreciate the accommodating manner with which you are treated by any of the personnel. And be sure and meet Mr. Oswald personally. He will lend every effort to see that you have an enjoyable, clean, entertaining evening.

This service is backed by a reputation honorably earned. It is the result of good workmanship by men of recognized skill along these lines. Experienced automobile mechanics are employed to insure you the best in riding comfort.

An automobile is only a machine. A machine will not run forever without some repairs. So everyone of you carowners at some time or other must seek a reliable repair man to put your car in order.

You can drive your car in this garage where they will repair it in every detail, including repair service. This is a class of service that comprises every phase of automobile service

It makes no difference what make of car you may be driving or what reputation it may have for service or sturdiness, the years of service obtainable from it depend largely upon the care that has been taken of it and the class of service it receives at the hands of mechanics. The most careful motorist will not wait until he has a breakdown to bring his car in for inspection, but will at the end of five hundred miles or less have the car oiled, greased and carefully inspected for any trouble.

If every motorist could only know the greater mileage obtained with his or her car when properly greased and oiled and parts adjusted, say every five hundred miles, every one would save money by patronizing this efficient garage. Ordinarily you are careful the first three months with your car — why not keep it up the life of this car?

This shop is on the job every day, every effort to render the best service in the face of any mishap.

WORTH FOOD MART

J. G. Kwasteniet, Prop.

111th Street, near Harlem Ave., Worth, Illinois. Tel. Worth 14-M-2

Prompt Delivery Service

COMPLETELY REMODELED — COMPLETE SELF-SERVICE
FRUITS — VEGETABLES — QUALITY MEATS

Mr. Kwasteniet invites the people of this community to visit this store for the FORMAL OPENING, July 24th, and judge for themselves Mr. Kwasteniet's interpretation of a real streamlined self-service Food Palace.

This well known retail grocery and market is the one shop in this district where the housewife knows she can secure the best foods at a reasonable price. The store is modern and up-to-date in every particular, clean and sanitary through. The business is conducted along progressive lines and we are proud to say that it is a credit to the commercial life of this county.

Here is your local grocery and market with the interest of your home and county at heart.

To be able to and make certain of getting the best of fresh meats, groceries and allied products is a great boon to any community. This is the place where the highest quality prevails at the lowest possible cost.

The public is thus assured of a grocery and market of the very highest grade right here at home and thus it merits the consideration and liberal support of both farmers and townfolk.

There is a great deal more to the business of conducting a first class grocery and market than the average man understands. This is an essential business that requires at its head a man of experience and who is familiar with the details and the necessity for adequate supplies. It is such houses as this one that add to the convenience of the farmer and provide good provisions.

The story of the success of the firm is one that many business men would find profitable reading. This firm began its career with the firm belief that success could be obtained by furnishing first class supplies upon a reasonable margin of profit. With this method in mind it proceeded upon its career upon the solid foundation of good values and reasonable prices. As their trade increased and the business flourished they expanded until now it is one of the leading stores of the county.

The Worth Food Mart is in the hands of men thoroughly conversant with the general business conditions of the country and of wide experience in the buying world, familiar with retail trade conditions, therefore this firm has become one of the most valued of our commercial and agricultural assets.

FRANKFORT GRAIN CO.

LUMBER AND BUILDERS

Lumber, Coal, and Feed of the highest Grade and Building Supplies. Mr. Henry Luhring, Manager Conveniently Located in Frankfort. Phone Frankfort 2621

This popular Frankfort concern is one of the firms in this section that offers the best of service and prices are so reasonable as to encourage building of new homes and enterprises.

They will be glad to submit estimates. They offer a very large stock and prompt delivery so that no work will be delayed; guaranteed satisfaction; uniform in quality and price.

With a vision of a greater state and community always in mind this popular firm which operates one of the best supply establishments in this section of the state has become an important factor in the development of this section. While it has been their object to obtain fair and honest profit from their extensive dealings in building materials, the guiding influence of this company has always been to furnish the highest grade goods at prices so reasonable that the extension and beautification of this section could progress rapidly and in great leaps and bounds.

Lumber, Coal, Feed and builders supplies are furnished by this progressive firm. By purchasing to an advantage when the market is right and employing only the most experienced help they are able to offer this high grade stock at prices so reasonable as to encourage the extension and beautification of homes and enterprises.

Under able management they are able to offer a service that is most complete and this enables them to have any quantity desired.

There is no establishment in this section that has a greater influence for the better upon the building industry. Contractors have come to know that whatever they desire in the line carried can be secured from this firm with a knowledge that it will be the highest grade consistent with the price.

Mr. Luhring through this article wishes to advise the people of this section to order their coal now. No one is in a position to predict what difficulties we possibly may have later on due to defense preparations.

In making this review of the community we are glad to compliment the Frankfort Grain Co., upon their very comprehensive lines, their excellent service in all departments and refer them to all our readers.

PALOS PARK RIDING STABLES

WALTER'S BARN

BARN DANCES — HAYRACK AND SLEIGH PARTIES

Enjoy Riding on Beautiful winding Forest Cinder Bridle Paths the Year Round

1 Block North of 119th Street on 86th Ave., Palos Park, Ill. Tel. 113-R-1

Palos Park Riding Stables is one of the institutions that add to the sports of life of this part of the state and promotes outdoor life.

Horseback riding is a very, worthwhile athletic and social pastime and if you like any form of outdoor life or activity you are certain to be very keen about riding and there is no school throughout this part of Illinois where you will be able to get better instruction than here.

All children should be taught to ride and at the Palos Park Riding Stables they are taught to ride with utmost confidence. A course in riding will give them something to look forward to during the summer and help break the monotony of school days.

They have an excellent stable of horses and they thoroughly understand their care and training. They have riding masters who will accompany all new riders and see that they learn properly and learn with confidence. It is necessary to have a good riding master to learn correctly and enjoy the sport.

All you have to do is to drop in here or call up on the phone and arrange for lessons. They teach children as well as the young, old and middle-aged and offer a very complete service. They will advise you about all details and give you such suggestions as to riding habit as you desire.

In making this review we are very pleased to call the attention of the people to the Palos Park Riding Stables as an institution that lends a touch to our complex civilization and affords pleasure to the many.

Call for reservations for parties. The friendly hostess Mrs. Ward welcomes you.

Since the opening of the Brookwood the name has spread far and wide as a place of popular prices and where the local and traveling public can more than satisfy their demands in obtaining the best in service. They cater to special parties; truly a place for discriminating people to meet.

The Brookwood presents an appearance at all times that is different from the usual.

The lighting effects are colorful and charm the eye. This well known place appeals to all the senses and hurls one to forgetfulness of the hum drum of life.

It is indeed refreshing to go to such an up-to-date establishment, it is unsurpassed in good modern service. When the manager went into business it was with the idea that a fine, modern place would be appreciated by the public. That this motive idea was well founded is proven by the success of the Brookwood.

Private parties and special groups will receive the cheerful welcome extended to all visitors. For the crowd's social "get-together" plan your next party at the Brookwood.

We are pleased to compliment on the high character of the manager Mrs. Geo. B. Ward who is rendering a much needed and highly appreciated service to the public and to say the people always find there a refined and pleasant hostess.

KING ELECTRIC SERVICE

Mr. Frank G. King, Prop.

Dependable Radio Service Conveniently Located for our Readers at Phone: Palos Park 32-M-1 125th Street and 82nd Ave.

This is one of the most modern services to be found in this section having the latest efficient equipment for the carrying on of a complete service for the repairing of all radios regardless of the model or the make.

They carry at all times a complete stock of tubes and supplies. Those desiring these parts can always secure them at this shop.

In many instances poor reception is caused by some minor defect that can be remedied in a very short time when taken to a reliable shop such as this one, but if not taken care of immediately, or taken to an amateur, will in many cases develop more serious trouble.

If you are going to town stop here with your radio and when you have finished your shopping they will have your set in the finest condition for you to take home with you.

We wish to compliment the manager Mr. King upon the high order that he conducts the business of the dependable electric service and urge all of our readers that they can do no better than patronize this shop.

PALOS PARK

Dorothy Robson

A serious accident occurred on Thursday, July 3rd about 5 p. m., on Kean Avenue just north of 123rd Street. A car pulling a trailer load of hay owned by Peter Rink was struck by a beer truck belonging to the Bloomington, Indiana Beverage Company. Both cars were going south and the truck hit the trailer and knocked it over and then hit the car and everything went into the ditch. The car and trailer were traveling on the shoulder and were just about ready to make the turn for the riding stable, which is right across the street. Herman (Chuck) Redford was riding in the rumble seat of the car and Jack Murray was driving. Chuck was knocked out and under all the hay and trailer bits and was seriously injured. No one was hurt but just stunned. There were two men in the truck. After Chuck was dug from under the wreckage he was put in a car and taken to the office of Dr. Caldwell in Lemont and then rushed to Joseph's Hospital in Joliet. The boy never lost consciousness and suffered untold agony. He had to wait in the hospital until his parents' consent could be given for an operation. They live in Justice Park but Chuck has been employed by Pete Rink for some time. After the consent of his parents was given the operation was performed which took three hours. He was placed in a cast from his hips to his neck and his broken right arm was also placed in a cast. His arm is badly injured; all the nerves and bones are smashed and it is doubtful if the boy can be saved, and if so, it is believed his arm will have to be amputated. He will have to be in the hospital for months and may be a cripple for the rest of his life. The case is now in the hands of attorneys awaiting word from doctors about his recovery.

News From Springfield

By Bernice T. Van der Vries

The General Assembly in its closing hours entered into the spirit of the new law which bans fireworks except for exhibition and dispensed with the bombardment which had become a tradition when a session adjourned. There were only a few explosions when the close came at 3 o'clock Tuesday morning.

The tradition of having a mock legislative session in the House at about 11 o'clock on the closing night was maintained. This bit of fun which lasts about fifteen minutes is mainly for the benefit of the crowds in the galleries, but it serves a useful purpose by breaking the tension of the members of the House who have been working at top speed for many days. At the close of the mock session, the clock is stopped so that all work can be considered as of June 30. The crowds melt away and back to work we go.

DIFFICULT SESSION

There is general agreement that the 62nd session was a difficult one. A change of administration always brings new problems. Governor Green was immediately upon taking office confronted with not only administrative matters but legislative work as well.

Miss Janet Morse of Joliet was a guest the Fourth of Miss Lois Sproat.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stocker and daughter Eleanor left Thursday for their home in Wichita, after spending several days in the Wright Woods home. Miss Irene Stocker left Saturday morning for her home in Wichita.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Corp were dinner guests on Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bentley in Lockport.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Cleveland and family of Warren, Minn., are visiting relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Moore and daughter, Ramona were guests Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ike Cleveland in Orlando Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Marshall and Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Moore and Ramona enjoyed an outing at Rock Creek on the Kankakee last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Kohl spent Sunday with relatives in Chicago.

John Keller of Chicago was a guest the Fourth in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Blodgett.

Mr. and Mrs. George Andrew of Frankfort were entertained Sunday afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Blodgett.

Miss Jeanne Frazer, Henry Smith and Burnett Gorham spent Sunday afternoon in Evanston.

Miss Kathleen Gast of Joliet is a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Brock.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Huising and son Donne, of Fairmont, who just returned home from Washington, D. C., were guests Sunday in the Fred Blodgett home.

Vernon and Pat Brock, of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. William Delany of Joliet, were entertained Sunday in the John Brock home.

In spite of the recommendations of the budgetary commission which had been working on appropriations for months, there were demands for increased appropriations from the departments of state government; from the school interests of the state from the elementary schools, thru the normal schools and the university, from welfare groups, including old age pensioners and proponents of aid for dependent children. Night after night for months until 3 o'clock in the morning the Governor and his advisors wrestled with the financial problems of the state with the result that the Sales Tax was permitted to revert to 2 per cent and new taxes to make up some of the lost revenue were applied to cigarettes liquors and oil. In all, the saving in expenditures will amount to 10 million dollars for each year of the biennium. It is safe to predict that as Governor Green becomes more familiar with his administrative departments that greater savings will be made.

AWAIT EXECUTIVE ACTION

The Senator and the three representatives from the Seventh District which they sponsored. It is too soon met success with most of the bills to predict the ultimate fate of their bills which were passed, as they form a part of nearly six hundred bills which are now before the Governor for his signature or veto.

Senator Bidwill secured the passage of a bill for the education of mentally handicapped children, a bill permitting city clerks to employ deputies to assist in the registration

The people in the State of Illinois will have every opportunity to purchase the savings bonds which are being offered for the financing of the defense program. McCORMICK-DEERING SALES AND SERVICE

John F. Schmadeke, Prop. Beacon Street, Orland Park, Ill. Phone Orland 7-J

This is one of Southern Cook County's outstanding Tractor and Farm Implement houses catering directly to the farmer and in addition are dealers for leading makes of farm supplies, such as Feeds, Seeds, etc., and also offer a leading market for buying of farmer's grain.

Mr. Schmadeke, the proprietor wishes to extend through this article an invitation to all Southern Cook County agricultural men to visit his fine display of the 1941 models of tractors and McCormick-Deering farm implements. The location is convenient in Orland Park.

They have also gained wide favor for their prompt service on hurry-up orders for replacement parts and repairs.

McCormick-Deering Sales and Service made an exhaustive study of the type of farm machinery particularly suited to the cultivation of this section and have always been keen to add the latest developments to their line as soon as it was found to be of value. We also wish to state that you will never find any member of this firm too busy to explain in detail or to demonstrate the many refinements of McCormick-Deering Implements or Tractors or to add their expert advice and counsel to any of your farm cultivating problems.

This policy has created for McCormick-Deering Sales & Service many clients among farmers of our section and we are glad in this review to compliment the firm and its personnel on their outstanding service.

PALOS SEED & NURSERY CO.

Phone Palos Park 36-M-1.

There is no one who has aided more in the beautification of estates in this section of the country than Mr. Jas. DeNovo.

In the last 25 years Mr. DeNovo has developed a hardy strain of Asiatic flowering Magnolias, the blossoms of which are as fragrant and delicate as most of the Orchids, truly a wonder and something our late Luther Burbank would have marveled at.

They are practical landscape architects, being able to give valuable suggestions as to the kind and number of trees, plants, shrubs and flowers necessary to make your lawn or grounds a veritable paradise.

They are able and ready to plant trees, plants, flowers and shrubs so that there will be a continuous bloom all the year round. Their nursery is well planted at all times and no matter whether it is for the winter season in the open country or for the spring, summer or fall they will arrange a selection that will give you a place that is a wonder of nature.

Far seeing people have Mr. DeNovo make regular visits to their places, look over the trees most carefully, trim off superfluous branches, trim them or make any repairs necessary. A regular inspection will catch small defects before they grow large, and remedy at small cost what would be very expensive to fix later on. The importance of tree inspection cannot be too strongly urged. Trees kept in good order will greatly enhance the sales value of a place, and they will always be a joy to the owner. A consultation with a reputable man such as Jas. DeNovo should be the preoccupation of every home owner if not already done.

In making this review of the progress of the day due mention should not be omitted of the excellent work performed by Jas. DeNovo in the beautification of lawns, estates and boulevards in this part of the state.

FRANKFORT STATE BANK

Low Rate Cattle Loans 4 1/2 %

Farmers need the specialized services of a good bank more than any other group of people. They have many specialized problems and little time to deal with them. And so the Frankfort State Bank is especially proud of the fact that a great many of their depositors are farm folk.

They appreciate a farmer's problems. Hardly a day goes by that they are not called upon to discuss them. With their complete range of banking services they stand ready to further agricultural progress and thru it, general prosperity.

They have ample banking room and a massive Safe Deposit Vault—the most modern in our community that will better serve all their clients. They have facilities to serve every banking need of the farmer and are anxious to serve them.

It may be truly said that a review of this section would not be complete without reference to an institution which has been a potent factor in the financial, agricultural and industrial development of the community. It was a legitimate outgrowth of the needs of the people for adequate banking facilities. From the day of its opening to the present time, The Frankfort State Bank has been noted for its sound and conservative management, commanding at all times the confidence of capitalists, business men and people generally holding a high rank in the banking circles of the state.

A banking institution as well as an individual, has character built through its period of existence, by the difficulties it overcomes and its struggle toward the attainment of its ideals. Here you will find strength, seasoned judgment, dependability, accuracy in handling detail and breadth of vision, all to be applied to the management of your financial affairs.

STANDS the most powerful nation on the face of the world . . . powerful because of its 130,000,000 happy, unified, liberty-loving citizens . . . and powerful because of its infinite capacity to produce materials to construct a free, great country.

America boasts not of her capacity to produce goods for destruction, but stands serene and confident in this hour of world chaos in the knowledge that should the proponents of barbarism force her to do so, mankind will be stunned at the incredible torrent of death-dealing instruments a peace-loving, tolerant, but aroused people can fashion to crush the foes of tolerance and liberty.

God grant that our mountains will be undecaying monuments to our priceless heritage . . . that our boundless prairies will continue to produce not only our food, but the nourishment of those soil-rooted virtues which are threatened with banishment by the frenzied madmen of another continent. God grant that our great expanse of oceans will by their very greatness protect us from the exponents of doctrines that would rob us of our priceless rights of freedom of speech, freedom of religious worship, freedom of assembly and freedom for an enlightened press. We are proud to be part of the first line of defense of American liberties . . . to always stand militantly at the side of every true American against the inroads of doctrines seeking to destroy America's priceless heritage.

CRISP, COOL SUMMER SALADS
(See Recipes Below.)

AT HOME TO SUMMER

In a recent poll, 37 per cent of the thousands of homemakers receiving questionnaires expressed a desire to be experts at salad making . . . 43 per cent wanted to know how to make food look glamorous.

This report gave me an idea. Salads, besides being healthful and givers of vim, vigor and vitality, offer a splendid opportunity for variety . . . they can be used as the appetizer or "starter" course, the main dish, a dessert, or they may accompany the dinner course.

So, besides giving you timely tips on the art of salad making, I'm going to explain literally dozens of ways in which you creators of daily menus can give "oomph" to your tasty dishes.

The characteristics of a good salad are simple and fairly easy to accomplish; namely, it should be well chilled before serving; have an attractive arrangement, and a pleasing color combination.

Salads in summer are as important as swimming or tennis or golf. They give an opportunity to add color and gaiety to the table.

Your choice of ingredients will depend upon what you have planned for your main course and dessert, provided your salad is to be a side dish or an appetizer.

There are many varieties of fruit salads. They are excellent by themselves or as an accompaniment to a main course of sea food or meat and a pastry or cake dessert.

Good to eat, wonderful to look at and substantial is this salad of orange slices and prunes, stuffed with cottage cheese. (See picture at top of column.)

*Orange Prune Cheese Salad.

On a bed of lettuce circle 10 to 12 orange slices. At the side arrange 3 cooked prunes which have been stuffed with cottage cheese. With a sharp knife peel oranges, removing all outer skin and inner membrane down to juicy meat. Cut in thin, even slices. California oranges, which are firm-meated and practically seedless, are excellent to use.

Serve with a sweet french dressing, made with lemon juice. With a hot bread and beverage, this salad makes a well-balanced home or party luncheon.

Sweet French Dressing.

1/2 cup lemon juice
1/2 cup salad oil
1/2 cup red jelly or honey
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon paprika

Shake or blend well before serving. Makes 1 1/2 cups. Lemon juice gives this dressing just the flavor needed to make the orange, prune and cheese combination the perfect salad.

Keeping cool during summer months is a problem, solved most successfully by eating properly.

LYNN SAYS:

Don't be timid about putting your own personality into your salads. Here are some suggestions which may help you become famous for your salads . . .

Try:
Fluting bananas by running the prongs of a fork lengthwise down a peeled banana, then slicing it crosswise.

Adding chopped, broken or whole walnut kernels to fruit, vegetable and meat salads.

Using fruit juices to thin mayonnaise and to mix with french dressing.

Adding a fruit gelatin, sliced or cut into glistening cubes, to a fruit salad.

Brightening the edges of lettuce leaves by dipping them in paprika, or adding chopped parsley to the edges of pineapple slices.

Adding a little lemon juice or vinegar to sweet cream for salad dressing—makes a quick substitute for sour cream.

Plenty of the protective foods, such as eggs, milk, fruits and vegetables—all excellent salad materials—should be eaten.

Japanese Potato Salad will really give a meal a lift! Easy to prepare, inexpensive, it may be used as a main dish, with a cold meat platter, or for additional variety so acceptable to the buffet table.

Japanese Potato Salad.

1 cup flaky, hot boiled rice
1 medium to large potato, hot mashed
4 hard cooked eggs
1/4 cup french or boiled dressing
2 tablespoons chopped sweet red pepper, or pimiento
1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1/2 teaspoon salt

Mix rice, potato and two of the eggs, which have been sieved, into salad dressing. Chill. Just before serving, add remaining ingredients. Taste and add more seasoning if desired.

Heap on lettuce, or serve without greens in a large bowl. Garnish with remaining eggs, sliced or sieved. Yield: 4 servings.

When the mercury soars skyward and appetites are on the wane, nothing tastes quite so good as a chilled, molded mixture of fresh vegetables or fruits, placed on a bed of crisp greens and garnished with a tart, taste-teasing dressing.

Lime Cucumber Salad.

1 package lime gelatin
1 1/2 cups hot water
2 tablespoons vinegar
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons scraped onion
Dash of paprika
1 tablespoon chopped pimiento
1 cucumber, diced

Dissolve gelatin in hot water, then add vinegar, salt, scraped onion and dash of paprika. Chill until beginning to thicken, then fold in chopped pimiento and diced cucumber. Chill until firm and serve on salad greens with a garnish of mayonnaise.

Since it's open season on salads, homemakers who like variety will be interested in several types of salad dressings. Here are two which will do much to bring out the full flavor of your tasty concoctions.

Thick French Dressing.

1 cup salad oil
1/2 cup vinegar
1 teaspoon mustard
1 tablespoon sugar
3 teaspoons paprika
1 teaspoon gelatin

Mix dry ingredients; add oil and vinegar. Beat thoroughly. Put the gelatin in 1 tablespoon cold water and dissolve in 2 tablespoons boiling water. Cool; add dressing. Beat thoroughly about 15 minutes and allow to stand until a good emulsion is formed. Use fruit juice instead of vinegar for fruit salad. Use more paprika if a darker red is desired.

Egg Dressing.

1/2 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon celery salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
5 tablespoons vinegar
1 egg yolk
1/2 teaspoon mustard
1 teaspoon sugar
1/2 cup salad oil
1 teaspoon salt

Mix ingredients and shake well. Add beaten egg yolk when ready to serve. Half lemon juice and vinegar may be used.

STORY OF THE WEEK

Newspaper Clipping

By RICHARD HILL WILKINSON

(Associated Newspapers—WNU Service.)

"BILL TRAINOR," Lee Shepard announced, "is going south with Calvin Wendell. Mr. Wendell hired him as secretary and companion." Lee paused and wagged his head. "I tell you, you can't keep a smart man like Bill down. Mr. Wendell is not only the richest man in this town, but he's famous all over the state as a political leader."

Brenda, Lee's wife, bit her lip and regarded her husband defiantly. "Bill Trainor," she said, "isn't one bit smarter than you are, Lee. I do wish you'd stop thinking of that man as some sort of saint."

Lee looked up reproachfully. "Oh, come now, Brenda, I'm not in it with Bill. Why, imagine Mr. Wendell hiring me as his secretary and companion! I tell you, Bill's smart to get a job like that."

"You," said Brenda shortly, "don't have to go to Mr. Wendell for a job. You already have one. And you're able to keep it, and get a promotion every year, and a raise in salary. Bill Trainor's had five jobs in as many years."

"And always improving himself," Lee chuckled. "Oh, there's no use trying to be kind, Brenda. Little Lee will never be as smart as Bill Trainor, no matter how hard he tries. Why, Bill never had a job that paid him such a small salary as I'm getting now."

"To hear him tell it he hasn't," Brenda's eyes blazed. "Lee, sometimes I think you're positively stupid. I mean about other people. The inferiority complex you have. Especially where Bill Trainor is concerned. You've let him talk you into believing he's smarter than you and brighter and more popular and will do bigger things. And despite the fact that he was at the foot of your class in school, that he's been unemployed more than he's been employed, that he isn't married and doesn't own more than the shirt on his back—you still think of him as some sort of superior being. Honestly, it does seem as though you'd wake up!"

"Honey, you're a sweet kid and a loyal wife."

Lee saw the vehemence in his wife's eyes, and it amused him. He stood up and came across the room, leaning over to pat her shoulder.

"Honey, you're a sweet kid and a loyal wife. But you're wrong about Bill. Back in school he devoted a little too much time to athletics, I'll admit. But each job he's had since graduating has been better than the one before. He's quit them because he wants a lot of experience before settling down. And you can't blame a man for not investing his money in real estate nowadays. Goodness knows, I wish we'd rented instead of bought."

"Well, at least we have something that's tangible, something that we can look at and call our own, something that we came by honestly."

Lee drew his brows together in a frown. "Bill's honest, Brenda. You mustn't insinuate he isn't honest."

"Then why doesn't he pay you back the money he borrowed? When a man doesn't pay his debts, he isn't honest!"

Lee's frown vanished. "Oh, that! Don't worry about that, honey. Bill will pay us back. That boy is going a long ways."

Brenda laughed bitterly. She couldn't help it. Lee's attitude toward Bill Trainor seemed such a blind, hopeless thing. Lee was, after all, such a simple person, so wholly believing and faithful to his friends. The situation, as far as worthless Bill Trainor was concerned, was pathetic.

"Calvin Wendell," Lee was saying, "wouldn't hire Bill for his secretary and companion unless the boy had something that was pretty outstanding."

Brenda was silent at that, because it was true. Being secretary and companion to Calvin Wendell was a pretty important position. She couldn't imagine how Bill had ever secured the position. She couldn't imagine it because she couldn't picture Calvin Wendell entrusting such matters as his correspondence to a person like Bill Trainor.

"How much," she asked, looking up at Lee, "is Mr. Wendell paying the boy wonder?"

Lee beamed. "Fifty a week, his keep and clothes. Which, if you ask me, is a pretty good job these times."

"And clothes! Good heavens, can't the youth dress himself?"

"Naturally," said Lee coldly, "when Mr. Wendell and his secretary appear in the smart hotels and clubs at Miami, he'll want Bill to look the part of a gentleman. He probably realizes that a man can't dress extravagantly on fifty dollars a week. I think it's pretty decent of him."

And so Brenda, for the time being, at least, gave up trying to convince her husband of Bill Trainor's falsity. She dropped the matter entirely, apparently conceding victory. And yet, during the days that followed, something Lee had said lingered in her mind. And at length Brenda yielded to a desire to put into execution a half-formed plan—simply to rid her mind of this annoying thought.

It was three weeks after Brenda had had her argument with Lee that she wrote a letter. And it was two weeks after that that she received a reply. Accompanying the reply was a newspaper clipping.

Brenda looked at the clipping and her heart bounded . . .

That night when Lee came home to dinner he found a newspaper clipping at his place and curiously picked it up. There was a photograph of two men, standing before an automobile. One of the men was Calvin Wendell, wearing a Panama hat, flannels and a dark jacket. The other was Bill Trainor. Bill had just opened the car door and was standing one side to permit the appearance of Mr. Wendell. Bill wore a uniform.

Beneath the clipping was the following caption: "Mr. Calvin Wendell of Frankton, Maine, who has just arrived in Miami with chauffeur . . ."

Lee went suddenly white. He glanced across at his wife, who was eyeing him fearfully. But at the expression which appeared in his eyes she knew her fears were no longer necessary.

Smiling, she leaned across the table. "And clothes, darling," she said. "And clothes."

Doctor Treats 200,000

Patients—All With Wings

Few medical men have treated half that number of human beings but Mrs. Idella G. Manisera of Los Angeles has case histories in her files to prove that, in the past 30 years, she has prescribed for at least 200,000 patients—all birds.

"I've treated every variety from humming birds to pea fowls," says Mrs. Manisera, who also happens to be a grandmother. "My father was a bird fancier who had the largest private collection in California. His birds came from all over the world and often were ailing on arrival. I doctored them so successfully that my father put me in charge of the 'infirmary.' He bought me the best books on the subject but I discarded all of them and worked out my problems with some small knowledge of medicine plus a generous helping of common sense."

Recently, Mrs. Manisera performed her first bone tumor operation on an African gray parrot, belonging to a Hollywood film director. The entire operation, without anesthetic, took 12 minutes, the patient lost less than half a teaspoonful of blood, and was able to return home in three days.

Providing canaries with new topknots, after they have been scalped by butcher birds, has become an old story to Mrs. Manisera.

"When the scalped area is too large," she explains, "I keep the skull moistened and the skin edges clipped. In three weeks, this treatment will grow a new scalp, the feathers of which match the missing topknot. If the area is not too large, I graft a bit of tissue, taken from the bird's wing stretches, onto the skull. A new topknot grows in almost two weeks."

Most of her canary patients suffer from digestive disorders, with calcium tumors and bone fractures runners-up. Sinus trouble, too, is a common canary ailment, caused by chaff residue in seed dishes.

Fifty miles from Los Angeles Mrs. Manisera runs her "Old Ladies' Home." Under the kindly eye of an elderly caretaker, more than 150 birds inhabit the five acres of the sanctuary.

The inmates include birds whose owners can no longer care for them, others uncared for at the hospital and a few "unwanted." To shut-ins, blind persons, and elderly incurables, Mrs. Manisera gives these birds and supplies the food necessary to maintain a balanced diet.

Glass Writing Board

A glass writing board in various colors which will improve the illumination and appearance of school rooms has been evolved, says a report to the American Chemical Society. The board has an extremely low reflection from the surface, is well adapted to use with chalk or crayon, and is permanent in finish so that it will not develop polished reflecting surface on continued use.

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD. Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed. Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging back ache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on a remedy less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!
